

NIGHT SESSIONS ORDERED IN DAVID SKLAR MURDER CASE; JUDGE FEARS SOME JURORS MAY BECOME ILL, AS CASE IS EXTENDING OVER CONSIDERABLE TIME

Several Jurors Suffering With Respiratory Illnesses—Jury Visits Scene of Murder at Croydon Yesterday Afternoon—State Police and Sheriff Accompany Them—Allen A. Ostroff, Manager of Market, Tells of His Narrow Escape from Death.

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 2 — Night sessions, as well as sessions all day Saturday, are to be held in the murder case of David Sklar, president and owner of the Safe Food Markets. Sklar was fatally shot in a hold-up outside the market on the evening of May 12th, last. The judge has ordered the extra sessions of court, fearing that perhaps some of the jurors will become ill, as the case is extending over considerable length of time, and a number of the jurors are suffering with colds and mild attacks of respiratory illnesses. The jury yesterday was taken to the scene of the murder at Croydon. The 12 jurors and the two alternates, accompanied by Bucks County sheriff and state police made the trip in motor cars, returning to Doylestown at three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Allen A. Ostroff, 38, general manager of the Safe Food Markets store at Croydon, told a jury yesterday how he narrowly escaped death at the hands of the bandits who murdered his brother-in-law, Sklar, 44-year-old president and owner of the company, during a holdup last May.

Ostroff, whose home is at 7535 Thouron avenue, Philadelphia, was the first witness at the trial of Martin J. Pearson, 25, of Cleveland street, Philadelphia, charged with Sklar's slaying along with two other men who will be tried later.

Taking the witness stand at three p. m., after three and a half days had been spent selecting a jury, Ostroff said he and Sklar and two employees were leaving the store at the end of the day when they were confronted by two bandits.

"I saw Sklar grab at a man and pull him out under the light. This Continued on Page Five

By International News Service

TOKYO, Mar. 2 (Saturday)—Bayonet-wielding U. S. Marines chopped their way through the vital mid-Korean highway hub of Hoengsong Friday against fierce Communist opposition that extended along the entire 60-mile central front. The tank-paced Leathernecks wrested the road center from Chinese forces and slammed 2,000 yards northward to take the commanding ground between Hoengsong and the 38th Parallel, 34 miles to the north. To the east of the Marines the U. S. Seventh and Second Divisions and South Korean troops were meeting "determined" resistance in their push for the important lateral highway from Hoengsong to Pangnim, 24 miles

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Escalator clauses written into wage contracts before the wage freeze on Jan. 25 were approved by Economic Stabilizer Johnston yesterday to avert possible strikes in the automobile and other key industries. President Truman, saying he regarded labor's walkout from all mobilization boards as only a disagreement, expressed full confidence in Mobilization Director Wilson.

A modification of the price freeze on new automobiles will permit manufacturers to raise prices 3½ per cent over Dec. 1, 1950, levels, with the retailer passing only the exact dollar increase to the buyer. ERRORS IN AUTO BOYS AD

Leon Plavin of Auto Boys informed the Courier this morning that in preparing his RCA advertising copy for his advertisement which appeared in the Courier yesterday, he made a number of errors. He gives these corrections as follows: RCA "Fairfield" advertised as selling for 600 pennies a week should have read 600. RCA "Rutland" 850 pennies per week instead of 85; RCA "Hillsdale" 750 instead of 75; RCA "York" 580 instead of 58. Mr. Plavin regrets his errors and states that an advertisement concerning this matter will appear in Monday's Courier.

Dr. Richard Carter Addresses Rotarians

Dr. Richard Carter, acting plant manager of the Hercules Powder Company's Burlington plant, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club yesterday afternoon when he sketched the historical background of his organization, displayed some of the products manufactured, and discussed the work of the Burlington plant. The meeting was held in the Elks' Home.

"Hercules Powder Company was established in 1913 and at that time it had 1000 persons on the payroll," Dr. Carter said. "Today our company has a personnel of 10,000 and operates 36 plants in 13 states and has two foreign subsidiaries."

"Our company is now the world's largest producer of explosives, although no explosives are manufactured in the Burlington plant which now employs approximately 100 people. There are six main departments in our organization, including: explosives, naval stores, paper makers chemical division, cellulose, cellulose products and synthetics. The Burlington plant is in our synthetics department, manufacturing products from rosin."

At the conclusion of his remarks Dr. Carter answered questions for members.

Paul Gruber, Quakertown Rotarians, reported on the District Conference of Rotary, scheduled for Atlantic City on April 1st and 2nd. President Raymond Sobatzki was in charge of the meeting.

SCALE MODEL EXPERT LEADS A BUSY LIFE

Some Assignments of Edwin P. Alexander, Yardley, Reach $5,000

BUILDS T-V STUDIO

A 44-year-old Yardley bachelor, Edwin P. Alexander, is one of the world's leading scale model builders. He is capable of producing, in exact detail, a mammoth factory site on the top of a card table. He has produced in miniature a scale model of a television studio that would fit on a checker board.

Alexander is one of the country's foremost authorities on railroad history. A few months ago his fourth book in this field was published. It is an illustrated work titled "American Locomotives." His other brain-children are "Model Railroads," a best seller; "The Pennsylvania Railroad" and "Iron Horses."

He developed a monitor board which enables "Red" Barber to keep track of what's going on at Ebbets Field when he is announcing baseball games. He owns a collection of railroadiana which has been appraised up to $30,000.

Mr. Alexander is a free-lance expert who has worked on special assignments from scores of industries. The pay ranges roughly from $25 to $5,000 per assignment.

During the war his work was considered important enough to merit high priority in getting scarce metals. He received a triple A-1 priority to obtain castings used in making models of howitzers.

Alexander's biggest job was a complete model rail system—80 feet long—which he put together for Continued on Page Six

NEW EPOCH UNFOLDS FOR BUCKS COUNTY AS BENJAMIN F. FAIRLESS TURNS FIRST SPADEFUL OF EARTH, MARKING BEGINNING OF CONSTRUCTION FOR A GIANT MILL OF UNITED STATES STEEL CORPORATION IN FALLS TOWNSHIP

Official Ground-Breaking Occurs for Fairless Works — 1,800,000-Ton-Capacity Steel Plant Expected To Be Completed by End of 1952 — Ceremony on 50th Anniversary of U. S. Steel Corp. — Exercises As Climaxed As Five Huge, Power-Driven, Earth-Conveying Machines Pass Through Tent, Pushing Dirt for Excavation.

A new epoch unfolded for Bucks County yesterday afternoon, when Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel Corporation, turned the first spadeful of earth shortly after two o'clock. This was the official ground-breaking in Falls township for the Fairless Works, a 1,800,000 ton capacity steel plant, which it is expected will be completed by the end of 1952. The ground-breaking occurred on the 50th anniversary of the U. S. Steel Corporation.

The scene of the ceremonies was on the site of the proposed plant in Falls township, along River road, a mile southeast of Morrisville borough limits.

The exercises of the afternoon came to a climactic end when five huge power-driven earth-conveying machines, painted a brilliant yellow, lumbered through the huge tent, the sides of which had been unfolded for their entrance and exit, after Mr. Fairless and others had excavated portions of the soil with glistening spades which will be placed in the company archives. As the huge, modern excavating machinery moved forward rhythmically while the Gary (Ind.) plant band struck up "The Anvil Chorus," the nearly 750 present visualized a sprawling steel plant occupying 3800 acre tract, constructed at a cost of $400,000,000.

This was an electrifying moment, as dignified guests climbed upon chair seats, to better view the activity.

The "needling" of the high officials in their use of the spades was audible over the amplifying system.

As batteries of high-powered lights flooded the area, as television and motion picture cameras clicked away, and radio communication was established with the outside world, numerous national, state and local officials, high-ranking members of the armed services, and guests from far and near witnessed the ceremonies. Bucks Countians in attendance attempted to fathom in their minds the transformation which is in store for this lower section of Bucks County, which is destined to become one of the "high-spots" of steel production in the world.

C. F. Hood, executive vice-president—operations, U. S. Steel Corporation, presided. He introduced Mr. Fairless, who spoke of the national, and even international, significance of the building of the big new steel works on the banks of the Delaware river. "There are bigger steel mills in this country, but never before—not even under the tremendous pressure of two world wars, has a steel plant of this size, been built at one time. That should be of interest abroad as well as at home."

Simon K. Moyer, chairman of Bucks County Commissioners; the Hon. John S. Fine, governor of Pennsylvania; the Hon. Alfred E. Driscoll, governor of New Jersey, and other scheduled speakers, extended congratulations to the state of New Jersey to the state of Pennsylvania "on the opportunity to have such a plant on the banks of the Delaware." The governor, who spoke extemporaneously, reminded that if historic events had turned out differently, "I might have been the head of an independent state, adjoining another independent state... But fortunately, wiser minds prevailed, and we became a great nation... But we in New Jersey do not look on with a sense of jealousy, but with a feeling of great pride... If this plant is one-half as productive as is Mr. Fairless, it will serve this nation well."

The governor reminded that the permanent site of the planned steel plant is "almost surrounded by New Jersey."

"From this plant," he continued, "will come not only the sinews of war to preserve the peace, but the implements of peace. We need the steel in our hearts to back up our virtuous words with action. We need the steel of courage to back up the world of free men... Without a sound economy no government is strong enough to guarantee our security... So to us Jersey-men and women this is a significant event... this new private enterprise which will produce jobs. We congratulate the U. S. Steel Corporation and the people of the Delaware Valley on having a new neighbor."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

In the middle of this talk about whether Mr. Truman will run again he says he would like to try a parachute drop... just can't keep up with this man.

We're wondering about him running and he's wondering about jumping.

But it would be an unusual way to enter the convention hall... certainly coming through the sky light would attract more attention than coming in on the ground floor.

It is true that most candidates come in with their hopes flying high, but usually they never get their boom off the ground.

I don't know whether Senator Tom Connally has thought about parachuting, but he sure sounds like he's ready to take the controls of a jet and fly it to Europe himself if he can't get an army over there in the next ten minutes.

Tom's acting real aggressive for a man of his age who doesn't personally plan to fight anybody.

Golly, he's more impatient than some of the young men who are going to get that all-expense cruise to Europe free with long stopover privileges.

THE LABOR CRISIS

Union labor has "gone on strike" against the defense machinery set up by President Truman.

Laor representatives have withdrawn from all the key positions they occupied in the various regular and special Federal departments which are in control of prices, wages, economic stabilization and defense mobilization.

This confronts the nation with a profound crisis. Labor's withdrawal is not a mere gesture. It constitutes an open threat that, unless President Truman and Director of Defense Mobilization Wilson back down on their present wage-price orders, the walkout in defense organizations will be followed with a walkout in industry, commerce and transportation on a national scale.

Make no mistake about it. The "big stick" which labor is brandishing is that of a nationwide general strike. That is a desperate weapon. In this country we have never witnessed it. But it has been used in France several times, and less frequently in other foreign countries.

It is a destructive remedy, like shooting a horse because you can't heal its broken leg.

The situation is so deplorable that it is hardly worth while going back and tracing the blame. There is blame on all sides. President Truman has to shoulder much of it. So does labor itself. So do the American people as a whole.

President Truman has messed up the wage-price end of the battle against inflation in a fashion that would call for his instant dismissal, if anything of the sort occurred in any other conceivable walk of life.

For political reasons he stalled on the imposition of these controls from last July to January, despite the fact Continued on Page Three

FREEZING FOR CANCER

Several weeks ago a Chicago woman was found frozen stiff in an alley. Her body temperature was 34 degrees below normal, her blood stiffened to a stiff sludge. Now she has practically recovered and will lose none of her limbs through amputation.

Amazed as they are by her survival, medical men are quick to see the possibilities of what had previously been termed "frozen sleep" as a treatment of cancer. When the experiment was first advanced experiments showed that cancer growth was retarded when the patient's body temperature was lowered artificially. The same treatment was found to be effective in mental cases, although no cures were claimed in either.

Recovery of the Chicago woman will create new interest in the theory and revive further study. Experiments previously conducted lowered body temperatures only 10 degrees below normal.

Medical science, continually searching for a cancer cure, may find in the experience of the Chicago woman valuable information that will eventually lead to a conquest of mankind's No. 1 killer.

TWO TERMS THE LIMIT

Now that 34 states have ratified the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution, and three years remain in which to pick up the other two "votes" that are necessary, success seems assured for the plan to limit future Presidents to two elective terms. Opponents of the amendment were confident it would never be approved until several weeks ago, when state after state—most of them in the South—ratified the ban on perpetual tenure in the White House.

This will be a desirable and needed reform in the nation's governmental processes. Many of the ills that afflict the country today might have been avoided if this amendment had been in effect 10 years ago.

When ratification of this amendment is completed, only one man can hope for election to more than two terms in the White House. This single exception comes about because President Truman is specifically exempted by action of Congress. But it is extremely doubtful that Mr. Truman can achieve more than two terms if he should attempt the feat.

A back-to-the-farm movement by investors scared of their money is under way. The real beggars will get under way when folks are scared about getting something to eat.

The administration has a lot of trouble shooters, but the troubles just won't stay shot.

Americans are too greatly concerned about the general welfare and not enough about domestic tranquility.

In these times it is sometimes a question whether hope has been discarded or has been abandoned altogether.

The Labor Crisis

that inflation spiraled higher and higher. The last buying power of the earnings and savings—and the taxes—of the American people during that frightful delay is far beyond calculation. Every wage-earner lost ground. Every bank account and insurance policy suffered. Every appropriation of the government shrank. Our economy was jeopardized, and the economies of all the various foreign countries we hope to have as friends, in the case of Russian aggression, were rocked and shaken. Some friendly governments may fall—France's is tottering; England's is only eight votes or so away from collapse.

When controls finally were applied to prices, they were at the top of an eight-month climb. But even so, the Administration lacked the nerve really to freeze them there. In a bid for the farm vote (and a slap in the face to labor) the White House refrained from clamping down on food prices—they will climb and climb and climb, according to the present program.

If organized labor demanded the impeachment and removal of President Truman on the strength of this record, there seems little doubt that an overwhelming argument in favor of such a course could be presented.

But labor's own hands are far from clean. Labor itself started this current cycle of inflation which has been raging since the end of World War II, and which has finally caught up with its originators. At the end of the war, labor demanded that its war-level earnings be guaranteed during reconversion and peace. It demanded in effect that wages be allowed to rise, but prices be frozen.

President Truman backed labor up in this incredibly bad economic program, and the result was chaos and inflation.

Wages and prices have been in a rat-race ever since, and the value of the American dollar and the stability of the American nation have been going down hill steadily.

But labor, in the present crisis, lacks the moral courage to confess its own past errors, and lacks also the political courage to place the blame squarely on the lap of its former tool and captive, President Truman. Labor lacks as well the vision to recognize that the basic questions involved are matters of legislation rather than of administration, and to turn therefore to the agency of government created to represent the American people most directly in such circumstances—the American Congress. Labor, unhappily, has been dragged deep into the socialist philosophy of believing that Congress is the least trustworthy of the Federal branches, whereas it is the cornerstone of free, representative government.

Labor may be in the process of being betrayed by its friends and its leadership.

The accusation that the Truman Administration has turned defense over to "big business" simply does not ring true. It is an echo of shoddy, shopworn communistic propaganda that never accurately described the political lineup of the American nation, and which is fantastically unrealistic as applies to the present situation.

"Big business" in this country is itself nearer to being forced to the wall than labor is. Over-taxation and over-regulation have "big business" in a position where bureaucracy may be able to take it over on short notice.

Labor's quarrel is not with "big business," but with Truman bureaucracy—with the horde of leech-like public "servants" which grows steadily more oppressive as a nation drifts into socialism.

The greatest danger labor faces is this bureaucracy. Trace back the history of the Fascists in Italy and the Nazis in Germany, and see how quickly the bureaucrats liquidated the free labor movement, the moment socialistic tyranny was set up in power.

Labor is playing squarely into the hands of its worst enemies in the present crisis.

Not only is it openly threatening to smash our unity at a moment of great world emergency, but it is doing so at a time and in a fashion that will permit any detractor of labor to charge openly and convincingly that labor's leadership is doing so, not to help American working people, but to help Communistic Russia.

Labor is creating a situation in which a demagogue, or a military dictator stepping in on the pretext of emergency, could destroy the labor movement forever and justify himself on the excuse that he was doing it because it was the only way of saving the nation.

And unfortunately for labor, the mistakes and false starts which labor's leadership have made during the past six years have so weakened the sympathy which the American people formerly had for the labor movement, that it might easily be the entire labor movement could be liquidated without serious protest by the country's citizens.

Labor is fooling with a buzz-saw. Surely there are wiser counsels and saner voices which can talk labor out of destroying itself—or following policies which might destroy this nation.

Penndel Council Lowers Employer's Per Capita Tax

PENNDel, Mar. 2—An ordinance was passed reducing employer's per capita tax from $4 to $2 last evening during a session of borough council held in the school building here with Joseph A. Keating presiding.

A full attendance was reported—the seven councilmen, Burgess Joseph A. Downing; George C. Morris, building inspector; and William McMath, health officer, being present.

Several permits were issued for the erection of new homes.

Decision was made to install 400 feet of corrugated iron pipe on Park avenue from Lincoln avenue to Bellevue avenue, to take care of drainage facilities for the new building the Philadelphia Electric Co. plans to erect.

Owners of the knitting mill which recently located here have applied for a permit to enlarge their present property.

4—The board vigorously press for legislation at Harrisburg in order to make local authority as advantageous as the state public building authority.

5—If the amendments proposed to the Municipal Authority act are approved the board should consider such an agency, to undertake to meet its building needs faster than the schedule recommended in the report.

6—The board hold at least one meeting a year with a representation of its citizens to explain its problems including elementary school buildings and to solicit assistance from this group.

Bids for athletic supplies were received from the following: Diamond Sporting Goods, $916; Lowe and Campbell, $942.25; A. E. Six Smith, $1,156.65. The contract was awarded to Diamond Sporting Goods, it being the lowest bid.

A low bid of $4,782.53 was received for general school supplies used in instruction from the Edward E. Babb Company and the contract was awarded to them. Other bids received were: L. B. Herr and Son, $4,999; Garrett-Buchanan, $5,461.25.

Walter D. Miller recommended to the board that the Township school district join the Northeast Philadelphia Study Council. The board voted to join the council and send four elementary teachers to the meeting to be held in Doylestown. Mr. Miller reported the teachers were all taking the Red Cross first aid course.

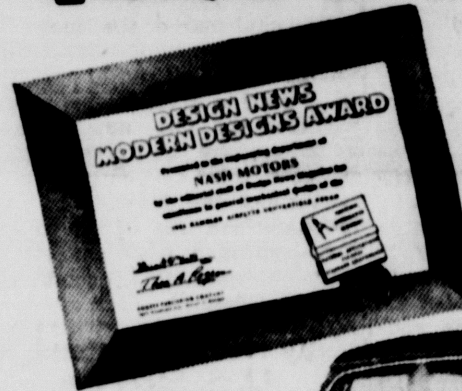

Miss Dorothy E. Reichert was engaged to teach in the elementary grades for the next school year. Miss Reichert was hired for the balance of this school year as a substitute teacher for the first grade at Bristol Terrace.

Clarence Young, secretary of the board, read a letter from Mrs. Dorothy A. McCollom, elementary supervisor, thanking the board for allowing her to attend the reading institute at Temple University.

The budget for the 1951-1952 school year was discussed by the board. The collection of taxes and other budget problems was the main topic in the budget discussion.

New Epoch Unfolds for Bucks County As Benjamin F. Fairless Turns First Spadeful of Earth, Marking The Beginning of Construction for A Giant Mill of United States Steel Corporation in Falls Township

Continued from Page One project," he said "is evidence of the dynamic character of American industry, and of the ability of the American worker to out-produce the world."

A telegram of congratulations, received from Myron Taylor, was read by Mr. Hood.

As Mr. Fairless took up the gleaming spade, Mr. Hood said to him: "This moment will increase in significance as this mill raises."

Guests arrived by airplane, automobile, special buses and on three special trains, the trains being on railroad coaches were drawn directly to the site. The railroad coaches were drawn directly to the site. A cordon of police was thrown about the site, and only those having invitations were admitted. The opening feature began shortly after 12 o'clock noon, when a catered dinner was served to 750 guests seated at 25 tables of 30 each. Bouquets of spring flowers, and replicas of steel ingots were on each table, the ingots being topped with a "U. S. S." insignia. A portable wood flooring had been placed in the dining tent. Around the walls of the dining tent were charts and graphs, showing the advancement of the steel industry, and impressing upon the audience that "steel is a complex industry." The backdrop of the stage was a huge aerial map, including the 3500 acres and showing the placement of the Fairless Works upon the topography.

At the conclusion of the dinner the Homestead District Works Chorus, comprised of 25 male voices, under leadership of Walter Jones, rendered selections. Male guests received as favors tie-pins in the form of miniature spades, symbolic of the spades used in the official ground-breaking. These were engraved "Ground breaking, Fairless Works, 3-1-51." The women received orchid corsages and 17-jeweled gold travel watches, mounted in alligator grain cases. These were embossed in gold "Book of Time."

Place-mats presented the "Plan of Operations of General Washington against the King's Troops in New Jersey, from 26th of December, 1776, to the 3rd of January, 1777." This covered an area of six miles.

Portable heaters were spaced at intervals throughout the two huge tents.

Opportunity was afforded at the conclusion of the exercises for the "steel men" to renew acquaintance in the tent where previously the dinner was served.

United States Steel for a number of years past had considered the advisability of constructing an integrated steel plant on the Atlantic Seaboard. After carefully considering sources of raw materials and the markets for steel products, it was decided that such a plant should be located in the Philadelphia-Trenton-New York area. Toward the end of 1949 a 3,500 acre tract was acquired in Falls Township, for eventual construction of a major steel works.

Following the outbreak of war in Korea last June, the company decided that the exigencies of the national situation required it to go forward at once with construction of this plant. The Government was advised of this decision, and late in 1950 certificates of necessity covering a major part of the estimated cost of the new facilities were issued in Washington. Orders for important items of equipment and machinery for the new works were placed at once, and a number of contracts for construction work of all types were let.

United States Steel Company, which is an operating subsidiary of United States Steel Corporation, and National Tube Company, another principal subsidiary, each will have a Fairless Works on adjoining sites.

Among the principal facilities of United States Steel Company will be ore, coal and limestone unloading and handling facilities, with ore docks accommodating large sized ocean-going vessels; two 87-oven by-products coke batteries with an annual capacity of 916,000 tons of coke and additional tonnages of important coal chemical products; two blast furnaces with an annual capacity of 1,200,000 tons of pig iron; nine open hearth furnaces with an annual capacity of 1,800,000 tons of steel; an 80-inch hot strip mill and hot strip finishing facilities; finishing facilities for cold of the same jury.

rolled sheets and tin plate; a bloom-slab mill and auxiliary facilities; a billet mill and auxiliary facilities; and a bar mill with a size range from 3/4 inch to 2 inches.

The initial annual capacity of the Works will be 285,000 tons of cold rolled sheets, 235,000 tons of hot rolled sheets, 285,000 tons of bar products, and 170,000 tons of tin mill products.

National Tube Company will install facilities for producing standard pipe, including a skelp mill, two Fretz Moon continuous butt weld pipe mills with an annual capacity of 281,000 tons, pipe galvanizing and finishing facilities, and a warehouse of 30,000 tons capacity.

In addition to these facilities, the plant will have a considerable amount of auxiliary equipment, including plant railways, roadways, sewers, utilities—including steam and electric power generation, laboratories, shops, and all industrial relations facilities.

It is contemplated that the new works eventually will utilize not only domestic ore, but high grade iron ore from foreign sources, as well.

EXCISED

BELLEVILLE, Mich.—(INS)—A Michigan woman was recently excused from jury duty to avoid any family trouble. Mrs. Lulu Terry of Belleville was excused when it was discovered that she and her husband, Ernest, were to be members of the same jury.

SIMON K. MOYER, Chairman of Board of Bucks County Commissioners

County Official Extends Welcome

"This is a momentous occasion. It is especially significant to those of us who are residents of Bucks County and the eastern part of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

"For years this immediate area has been widely known as a fertile agricultural section, steeped in the history of our nation. The produce of our wonderful farms has contributed much to the service of the better food markets of the Eastern Seaboard. Our way of life, here in Bucks County, has contributed largely to enrich the very marrow of our national backbone of substantial citizens with community spirit and a mutual regard for the rights, the liberties and the rewards that are our heritage.

"Now, almost overnight, the lower end of Bucks County promises to become a mighty industrial center, producer of steel, backbone of our national defense, and a guarantee of the preservation and development of the American way of life.

"This is a great change for those of us who have lived in or near this community. But I believe we Bucks Countians are people who can readily adjust ourselves to change, especially when we realize the important contribution to our national welfare and to the economic life of this area which will result from the establishment at this point of a major plant of United States Steel Company.

"I am sure I speak for my neighbors and fellow Bucks Countians when I say that the erection of the Fairless Work here is an event in our history to which we look forward with considerable pride. You know, we aren't exactly amateurs in iron-making here. Our forebears operated some of the first furnaces in this basic industry within musket-shot of where we are at this moment. We of this community will willingly again lend our help to an enterprise which is destined to strengthen our nation.

"I know I express the sentiments of my neighbors when I comment that the Fairless Works was a fortunate name for the steel mill about to rise here on the banks of the Delaware.

"Few people who follow national affairs are unaware of the role Benjamin F. Fairless has assumed as a leader of American business. He is recognized as a champion of the kind of system which has permitted our country, by reason of our sacred individual freedoms and our inherent right to reap the reward of enterprise, to become pre-eminent in our world.

"As an individual, Mr. Fairless typifies the success to which every young American of modest beginnings can hope to reach. Initiative, inbred in our people, ingenuity and honesty of purpose developed within himself, have permitted him to rise from the lowly beginnings of a coal miner's son to the presidency of one of the world's greatest business organizations.

"It is indeed fitting that the most modern steel mill in the world be erected as a monument to Benjamin Fairless, and his leadership. I know that this was the motivation which prompted his colleagues to place his name upon this steel mill.

"As chairman of the Bucks County Board of Commissioners and as an individual citizen of this County, I wish to extend a most cordial welcome to our new industrial neighbor, and the prayers of all of us that this enterprise will strengthen our defenses to permit the American way of life to persevere and lend both material and moral sustenance to peace throughout the world."

Does Not Want Tax Burden On Industry Heavier Than in Other States

"INDUSTRIAL EDIFICE"

Great pleasure was expressed by Pennsylvania Governor John S. Fine yesterday afternoon over the selection of the site in Pennsylvania for the proposed plant of the United States Steel Corporation. Governor Fine, in his remarks, expressed himself emphatically when he said: "I do not want the tax burden upon industry, considering both state and local taxes, to be heavier in this state than in other industrial states. I like to think that your determination to build this great addition to United States Steel properties was dictated to some extent by this attitude of government."

Governor Fine spoke, in full, as follows:

"You have broken ground here today for another monument attesting to the greatness of the United States Steel Corporation and indeed to the greatness of America.

"In reality, you have done far more than that. In erecting this edifice to industrial progress here, you are evincing continued faith in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and in the American system of free enterprise, and, you are nobly responding to a nation hard pressed and sorely in need of a great industry's vital product—steel.

"In this project you will forge a new era of peace which can bring what a troubled world yearns for—a lasting peace. That will be accomplished either through a successful but unwanted conflict to save humanity or by making the United States and its allies so strong none will dare defy our desire for peace. Next to our spiritual and moral values, our strength lies in our production.

"As Governor of the Commonwealth, I am especially gratified at having the opportunity to participate in these ceremonies. They mark another milestone in Pennsylvania's continued pre-eminence as an industrial State. Eventually, these ceremonies promise thousands of jobs for Pennsylvanians and other Americans, an impressive new payroll, and the creation and enlargement of smaller business activities which will rebound to the mutual benefit of many thousands of people.

"This construction is the first of magnitude to be undertaken since the start a month and a half ago of the present State Administration. It is a huge and most welcome addition to our vast industrial empire.

"It is a symbol of your belief—which I trust many others will share—that your State Government not only desires but invites more industrial expansion and new industries, and that it has a sympathetic attitude towards industry's problems. It means too, that you have faith in what I have repeatedly stated—industry in this State will not be overburdened by taxation. Our present tax structure, respecting business and industry, when considered by State and local impost, is favorable. We insist upon keeping it that way. True, increased costs of everything, may soon force a broadening of our tax base. You may rest assured any increases which may be found to be necessary, will be equitably distributed and will not be overly burdensome upon business or individuals.

"I do not want the tax burden upon industry, considering both State and local taxes, to be heavier in this State than in other industrial States. Large areas of public expenditures are carried by our State rather than by local Governments. This lowers local taxes. That, in itself, is an invitation to industry to come into Pennsylvania. This distribution of the tax load is a most important consideration.

"I like to think that your determination to build this great addition to United States Steel properties, was dictated, to some extent, by this attitude of Government, as well as the many advantages which will accrue from the site you have chosen. These advantages will be felt not only by you but by the surrounding communities as well.

"Your new plant here should increase your production tremendously. I believe our production is our bigness. It is production such as you undertake which may thwart evil men and save religion itself, as well as all freedom-loving humanity. I do not hold with those high-placed officials in this country who in peacetime condemn as evil industry because it is big. I can see no inherent wrong in bigness itself any more than I can see virtue in smallness. Business, big or small, depends on how honestly, efficiently, and morally it is conducted. United States Steel has kept abreast of the times. Today you are one of the most closely unionized of our industries. This was not always true. You live in harmony with Government, with labor and with customers. You have grown big in your fifty years of operation. May your growth continue unabated.

"To you, Mr. Fairless, and to the other officers of your great Corporation, I wish you continued success. You have shown renewed faith in Pennsylvania and a reassuring confidence in the Nation; your Commonwealth has faith in you."

Commissioners Are Thanked by Fairless

members of the U. S. Steel family: "To all of you gentlemen who have taken time out of your busy lives to join us here today, I am deeply grateful. We have come to witness the first step in the construction of a great new steel works—the turning of a spadeful of earth. That ceremony will take but a few moments and will command, at best, but little notice in a troubled world. And yet, to me, it seems that what we are doing here today is of more than passing historical interest to our nation and our people.

"Most of you know, of course, that during the Revolutionary War this area around Morrisville and Trenton was one of the nation's most important iron-making centers. Iron and steel produced here went into the weapons which enabled George Washington and his Continental Armies to establish the United States of America as a free and independent nation. Now that our liberties again are threatened, I think it is not only fitting but indeed significant that the iron and steel industry should return today to its historic home here on the banks of the Delaware, to embark upon the largest single expansion project that has ever been undertaken in its entire history.

"There are bigger steel plants in this country, of course, but never before—not even under the tremendous pressure of two World Wars—has a steel plant of this size been built all at one time. That should be of interest abroad as well as at home.

"There is international significance, too, in the fact that today we are setting in motion two great streams of inter-continental trade that will greatly benefit both North and South America. In the years ahead, millions of tons of iron ore will come out of Venezuela to charge the furnaces that we are building here. On the other hand, many millions of American dollars are already pouring out of the United States to develop the ore deposits in Venezuela. So this constant interchange of wealth between two continents will create new jobs, new homes, new opportunities and new prosperity for the people of both countries, and will surely strengthen the historic bonds which have so long united the Americas—economically, politically and fraternally.

"But to me there is, in all of this, a deeply personal significance which will always overshadow any other; for—as you know—my colleagues have convinced that this great plant be named the Fairless Works. There is nothing, I suppose, that any man desires more in life than the affection and respect of those who know him best. That is why no honor he could receive can ever mean quite so much to him as one that comes from the hands of those who work with him and around him. Certainly no man who has spent his lifetime making steel, living steel, and loving steel as I have, could want a finer monument to his career than this—plant that will go on, for fifty or

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1950
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2—Communists, you may rest assured, will distort what the American Bar Association is trying to do about booting Reds out of legal organizations and barring them from practicing in American courts.

A lot of flap-chinned characters will support the Communists on the basis of alleged possible violation of civil rights or just because they like the comrades. In fact, the Communists will bring in the first team on this one, because it's going to hurt them if it happens.

The American Bar Association got a little sick to its stomach watching Communist lawyers cavort in the New York court where Judge Harold Medina presided when ten Communist leaders were convicted of trying to overthrow the U. S. Government by force and violence. Decent lawyers in the Bar Association asked that a committee of legal experts be set up to see if something couldn't be done about forcing Communist attorneys to behave in court and before juries and Congressional investigative committees. Something was. The ABA voted to oust Reds from its membership.

In 1934 the Communists published a pamphlet, entitled "Under Arrest." This package of contempt instructed the comrades and their attorneys how to disrupt juries, judges and other authorities. The comrades learned their lessons well, as Medina and other federal judges now know first hand.

Here is Lesson No. 1 from "Under Arrest":

"The class struggle goes on in the courtroom as well as it does on the picket lines, in the shops and in the mines. The worker must learn to carry into the courtroom the same determined militancy that brought them there.

"Whenever possible expose the anti-working class activities of the police, stool pigeons, and courts. It is important that you insist on answering questions put to you in your own way. Do not allow yourself to be bulldozed by the prosecutor and judge, who may demand of you a 'yes' or 'no' answer. You either answer your own way, or not at all."

Sounds like cocky drivel, doesn't it? Yet daily in court or before Congressional committees the Communists, accompanied by their lawyers, are doing just as "Under Arrest" instructed them to do.

Either we have laws that all citizens must obey or suffer the consequences, and judicial procedures that all must abide by, or we have chaos in normal human relationships. This country through the years has established the fairest system of legal protections on the face of the earth. Yet, the Communists refuse to play it our way. Their lawyers encourage them.

Thus, the American Bar Association committee set up to study Communist tactics, strategy and objectives, maintains that such men are lawyers in name only and not fit to practice law in American courts. A doctor who performs illegal operations or violates the high oath of his office in other ways is not long allowed a license to practice.

In a sense the special committee of the ABA asked for the same right in protecting the integrity and reputations of its own members and the public as has been established for the medical profession. Countless other professions have similar protective restrictions.

In demanding the curtailment of disruptive Communist legal tactics the ABA is not proposing that Communists be denied the service of lawyers, or a fair hearing in court. In fact, the special committee, in its report to the House of Delegates of the ABA, specifically asks that ABA members make themselves available to Communists who are in trouble.

Austin F. Canfield, of Washington, D. C., chairman of the special ABA committee, rejected name-calling and hysteria in the investigation conducted on Communist lawyers. The conclusion reached by the committee is this:

"Our country may be in danger. We urge those who may be called upon hereafter to implement our work to do so as good lawyers should. Make every investigation fair and thorough so as to get the truth. Make sure every Constitutional guarantee is accorded as investigations proceed or charges are filed; but when conclusions are reached upon satisfactory proof, let us then meet the issue promptly and with grim determination."

Investigation by Canfield's committee so far has taken members to the conclusion that Communists are not fit to practice law in American courts. In Canada, the British Columbia Court of Appeals reached this decision more than a year ago. American Bar Association members can rest assured that civil rights in Canada have not been destroyed. Friends of mine in Canada assure me that the only change noticeable in daily living since the Communists were booted out of court is that things are generally quieter.

Night Sessions Ordered In David Sklar Murder Case

man, I learned later, was Harry W. Chapasco (one of the other two suspects). Chapasco took a gun out of his jacket and I heard him say, 'Let's have the money!' Sklar told him we didn't have the store money, only our personal money.

"They lined us up against a wall in the rear, and Chapasco stuck a gun in my back and pulled the trigger. It clicked but did not fire, and Chapasco said to me, 'You're a lucky guy.'"

"Then he put his hand in my pocket, took my wallet, containing $60, and hit me on the head twice with the butt of his gun. I fell to the ground. I heard a shot fired. I didn't see who fired it, but I saw Sklar fall."

The two bandits fled across Bristol pike, were picked up by an automobile and disappeared in the direction of Philadelphia, Ostroff said.

He could not identify Pearson as one of the bandits, he said. He saw him for the first time, he testified, when police brought him to the store in Croydon to re-enact the crime.

"He showed them how he shot Sklar," said Ostroff. "He said Chapasco's gun was knocked out of his hand scuffling with Sklar, and Pearson grabbed it and shot Sklar with it."

The jury was completed at 11 a. m. yesterday after the selection of three men to round out a panel of nine men, three women, and two men alternates.

Raymond M. Hilmer, of Quakertown, assistant restaurant manager, was selected as the first alternate juror, yesterday morning.

Mrs. Habel T. Smedley, of Newtown, was challenged for cause because of her objection to death penalty.

Russell W. Miller, Jr., a Doylestown men's store clerk, stated that he had arrived at a definite opinion and that it could not be changed. Defense challenged for cause. Miller said that he had read stories of the case in a local newspaper.

Robert Kessler, of Warrington, a short order cook at a Quakertown diner, was the 94th juror called for examination. He was formerly employed at the Bucks County Inn. The Commonwealth challenged peremptorily.

Lester S. Kraft, Jr., of Sellersville, a mechanic for Bucks County Motors, Cross Keys, was challenged because of conscientious scruples.

Robert C. Haldeman, 31, salesman, of Bristol town, Chalfont, R. D., a graduate of Doylestown High, and the University of North Carolina, was called. The Commonwealth passed the juror. He was the 96th juror examined. The defense accepted the juror and he took the place at No. 2 alternate seat, at 11 a. m.

It took approximately 20 full hours to complete the jury selection.

Since Oct. 23, 1948, when the commission assumed operation of the spans, revenues have totaled $3,941,680.45. The traffic count on the two spans during the 27-month period totaled 14,548,783 vehicles.

A breakdown of the 27-month report, from Oct. 23, 1948, to Jan. 31, 1951, follows:

Delhaas School Board Buys Athletic Equipment

Bids were opened for athletic equipment and general school supplies at a meeting of the Delhaas Joint School Board last evening in the Delhaas Junior High School. The meeting was presided over by the president of the joint board, Norman L. Roberts.

Walter D. Miller, regional superintendent, reported that all the teachers have started taking the Red Cross first aid course that is required by Civilian Defense.

The Northeast Philadelphia Study Council has been organized by Temple University. Mr. Miller reported, and school districts of Bucks and Montgomery counties have joined the council. The council will have leading educators talk at the meetings that will be held in the county offices of schools in Doylestown. He recommended that the Delhaas Board authorize two teachers to attend these meetings.

Clarence Young, secretary of the board, read the following letter sent to Dr. Charles H. Boehm, County Superintendent of Schools, by the State Department of Public Instruction: "It is very gratifying to note the excellent work on curriculum development being done at Delhaas Joint High School. The secondary school classification report indicates that the faculty of

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA--

All public, private and parochial schools in the Bristol area are invited to send news items for publication in this column which appears frequently.

Delhaas High School

Civilian defense has become an important part of the educational program at Delhaas high school. In January four members of the school faculty, Mrs. Baird, Mr. Antoni, Mr. Dick and Mr. Morgan, attended a class on first aid held at the National Farm School, Doylestown. These teachers are now giving instruction to members of the faculty. Classes are held twice weekly after school hours.

As part of the county plan of preparedness for civilian defense, Walter D. Miller, regional superintendent, has been appointed by Dr. Charles Boehm, county superintendent of schools, to organize lower Bucks county schools for education and welfare. This organization for civilian defense is said to be well organized and ready for immediate operation.

Pennsbury District

FALLSINGTON, Mar. 2 — The publication, "The Pennsbury School Report," which is issued to the public in Pennsbury area at regular intervals is an attempt to bring a picture of the school and its objectives of the educational program closer to the general public. Publishers have instituted a program whereby they will ask persons in the locality to participate by serving on a committee known as "The Pennsbury School's Report Advisory Board of Lay Citizens." It shall be the duty of these persons to suggest topics for feature articles in this magazine, which will be of general interest to the entire community. Those who will assist on this committee for the next issue are: Mrs. William S. Taylor, Jr., Mrs. Warren Malik and Thomas P. Nolan, 34. A new committee will be invited to make a suggestion for each new issue.

Members of its staff are: Forrest C. Jones, chairman of the school board; Medill Bair, regional superintendent of schools; Mrs. Cora Holsclaw, elementary supervisor, and editor; Mary Dwyer, Myrtle Kalenki, "Betty" Ann Neilson, Mary Kopfinger, William Ingraham, Joseph Rohrbach, Eleanor Mitchell and Howard Stringer.

A noon-time recreational program has been set up by the sophomore class of Pennsbury high, in order to provide organized recreation during the noon hour. Activities include darts, checkers, square-dancing and "movies." Chairman of the program is Doris Settlein; assisted by Marie Snyder, Jane Jones, and Katherine Patterson.

The response since the program was started a month ago has been overwhelming. Every day approximately 150 people gather to take part in various activities, which are under direction of the pupils.

A bake sale will be sponsored by the senior class of Pennsbury high, March 3rd, to obtain additional money for the trip to Washington, D. C. The sale will be held at 9:30 a. m. in Kilgour's store, Yardley, and a cleaning and dyeing establishment, Bridge street, Morrisville. Committee in charge include: Therese Marion, chairman; Louise Dilliplane, Jessie Maybury, Mabel Solt, and Marjorie Seymour. The Washington trip will cost approximately $1800. Advisors for the senior class are Arthur Kresbach and George Antunes.

Morrisville Borough

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 2 — Miss Janet Andrews of 315 West Maple Avenue, has been accepted for admission to Cedar Crest College for the fall term of 1951.

Miss Andrews is a member of the Senior Class of Morrisville High School. She will be graduated in June.

Miss Andrews has been one of the most active members of her class in participating in the various projects which are undertaken by her class and her school.

Cedar Crest is essentially a liberal arts college. It is located at Allentown, Penna. It was founded in 1867, through the foresight and initiative of a group of citizens of Allentown who were deeply impressed with the importance of providing an institution of higher learning for women.

Morrisville High School seniors have recently been informed through James P. Doherty, Guidance Director, of some valuable scholarships offered by Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y.

The scholarships offered at this time are known as the Alumni War Memorial Scholarships. 13 National four-year scholarships and 13 Regional four-year scholarships offered ing yearly stipends varying from $100 to $1200, depending on need, are awarded annually to freshmen entering Colgate University.

March 15th is the deadline for applying for these scholarships. Salem College of Winston-Salem, N. C., also has sent notice of 3 Competitive Scholarships valued at $1000 each. These are awarded at the rate of $400 for the Freshman year and $200 for each succeeding year.

Salem College specializes in Liberal Arts, Sciences and Music. Morrisville seniors have been notified that application for admission and for a scholarship should be filed as soon as possible.

display in the 1932 World's Fair in Chicago. The builder lives in a large farm house about two miles above Yardley. The king-size barn at the rear of the house is his workshop. Across the road from the house is a 20-inch gauge railroad and on it are a locomotive and tender about 16 feet in length. He built it at a cost of about $5,000. Mr. Alexander spent most of his early years in New Rochelle, N. Y. He moved to his present home in 1941.

In addition to his free lance assignments, Alexander sells railroad model parts and sections to customers all over the free world. Most of his regular clients are adults, with doctors and lawyers high on the list.

Much of his stock in trade has to be imported.

The craziest assignment of his career was an elaborate miniature railroad built for the young son of a millionaire in Ohio. "This was a weird deal," Alexander recalls. "I was in charge of the thing and we were seven weeks just installing it. It was really elaborate. The kid's father hired an architect and a contractor to work with me on it. And we had three carpenters. It was a beautiful thing and I guess it should have been because it cost more than $10,000. Funny thing about it though was that the millionaire's son got tired of it after a couple of weeks. He even refused to go near it later."

"Just think what some kids would give for a layout like that."

LOSES 3 IN ROW;
TRENTON WINS

Bristol Junior High ended its 1950-51 season by losing its third consecutive game yesterday afternoon when beaten by Trenton Catholic Junior High, 46-37, on the local's court. Bristol closed its season with 13 wins and three losses.

Yesterday's tilt was more closely fought than last week when the Trenton Catholic boys romped to a 62-33 win. Bristol's failure in the final session spelled the difference between victory and defeat yesterday.

The boys of Coach Ben Watson had staged a scoring spree in the third quarter to come within four points to deadlock the count 36-32.

"Bobby" Loud was high man for the losing team with 17 points while Trenton was led by Wood who registered 16 points.

By JOE ELBERSON

Meeting... The Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs will hold its next meeting on Monday, March 5th, in Doylestown, at 8 P. M. It is particularly important that delegates from all member clubs be on hand for the meeting, since election of officers for 1951 will be held, and other important business transacted.

New Champion... William Durr, local accuracy bait casting artist, went top honors in the finals for the 5th annual event at the New York Sportsmen's Show last Sunday, and with his win goes the title of New York Individual Bait Casting Champion. The Lehigh Valley team were tops in the team events, nosing out a Wilmington, Del. team by a single point. Ollie Hobbs, former National Individual titleholder, cast with the Lehigh team.

Congress and conservation... although there have been introduced into Congress nearly 3000 bills since the first session of the 82nd Congress convened on January 2nd, less than 200 of these have a conservation angle, states the National Wildlife Federation. Seven bills have been dropped in the legislative hopper which relate to fish and game.

Stupid proposed law... once again, one of those insidious and useless bills providing for the compulsory registration of all firearms has made its appearance. The proposer of this suggested law is Representative Edward Duffy, Jr., Philadelphia, and it was introduced as House Bill No. 306 in Harrisburg where the General Assembly is now in session.

Here is what the bill will do if it should become law: It would require the registration of all firearms by the owners within 30 days from the effective date of the bill; also cause ballistic tests to be made of the firearm and complete a questionnaire as to the knowledge of the game and fish laws and general laws relating to safe handling. Fee for registration, $1.00. Penalty for violation, $50.00 or 90 days imprisonment or both.

At present it is in the hands of the Committee on Law and Order, headed by Senator A. H. Letzler, 822 Eliza St., Hotzdale, Pa. If you agree the bill is contrary to our American way of life, then you should write and tell Senator Letzler you are opposed to House Bill No. 306. You should also let your own Senator and Representatives from Bucks County know you are opposed to the bill and enlist their aid in seeing that it is defeated. Here are the addresses: Senator Edward Watson, Doylestown, Representative Wilson Yenkel, Perkasie, and Representative Marvin Keller, Newtown.

Fishing contest... here are the rules which will govern the 1951 fishing contest which is sponsored annually by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association for its members: 1. Contest will open to all members of the Association who have been members at least 5 days prior to making an entry, and to anyone under 16 years of age living in Bristol or vicinity. 2. Awards will be made in the following divisions: trout, bass, pickerel, carp and non-game fish (not including eels). 3. Trout may be caught in any public fishing waters in Pennsylvania. 4. All other species may be caught in any public fishing waters of Bucks County or waters forming its boundaries. 5. There will be a special salt water division and prizes will be awarded for the following: (1) striped bass, and (2) any other species of salt water fish. 6. All winners will be decided by weight. 7. All entries are to be made at the Diamond Sporting Goods store, 134 Mill St., official contest headquarters. In an emergency entries may be made by contacting Ken Brandau or Ollie Hobbs, or by getting a notarized statement and submitting it to the chairman of the Fish Committee.

Shoot... a 16 yard, 50-bird Lewis Class bluecock shoot will be held over the traps of the Newportville Rod & Gun Club, Haunted Lane, Eddington, this Sunday, beginning at 12 noon. All shooters are invited to participate.

TO PRACTICE BAITCASTING

This Sunday, between the hours of 11 a. m. and two p. m., a practice baitcasting session will be held in the Edgely Community Building. All persons who are interested are invited to attend. Expert instruction will be available for beginners. The casting team of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association will be present to practice for competition in the forthcoming matches at the Philadelphia Sportsmen's Show. The Bristol team will enter the qualifying events at the show on the evening of March 13th. Included on the team are: William Durr, Ollie Hobbs, William Brady, Kenneth Brandau and Homer Hobbs.

OLD FISH

SEATTLE, Wash. — (INS) — The oldest tagged halibut ever caught is believed to be a huge 100-pound, 25-year-old halibut landed at Seattle. The ancient mariner was recently picked up near the coast of British Columbia close to where it was tagged and released in 1925 at the age of 10 by an International Fisheries Commission research ship.

MARINE ART

GLOUCESTER, Mass. — (INS) — The history of the Gloucester fishing industry has been recorded in murals by marine artist Larry O'Toole. The murals cover the walls of a room in the Y. M. C. A. building which was set aside for the purpose about a year ago. Capt. Ben Pine, most famous of contemporary Gloucester skippers, commissioned O'Toole to do the task.

KILLER COUGAR

fabled "killer" cougar of the Book of Mormon is remembered among Utah sportsmen. The giant cougar was recently tracked down and killed by three hunters. The cougar was known to have harassed ranchers in the area for several years, killing eleven colts on one ranch alone last summer, and had been hunted many times before without success.
